

Taken aback

I AM taken aback when I think of the so-called peaceful, but violent Mafwe protest against B A Sinvula, the newly-appointed Education Director in the region.

The Mafwe group seem to lack discipline, sense and understanding. It appears to me that the protest was backed by Muyongo's DTA. The same group are accused of dismissing Albert Buchane who was the Ngambela of the group. The dismissal was based on the reason that he received an invitation from Swapo.

They are now angry because the time for colonialism, which was their bread and butter, is now dead and buried. Education is the key and now our young men are taking over the posts because of their educational qualifications. The appointments were ministerially approved and not just because the Mafwe wanted it, as was the case in the past.

The Masubia group will never perform such stupid activities. Muyongo must please stop, and tell the people to come back to normal. A lot of the allegations by the Mafwe against the present Government are without substance.

The Masubia group believes in unity, peace and letting bygones be bygones.

The appointments did not affect the shops of businessmen which were smashed in the process. Justice must be done because your leaders lack discipline. Always reason before you act.

Please bury your tribalism.
