

Namibian hero

I WISH to honour the fallen hero, Immanuel Shifidi, who gave his life for his motherland.

He was killed at the Swapo rally in Katutura on Sunday and he died a peace-loving hero.

The best homage we Namibians can render to the immortal memory of Immanuel Shifidi is to strengthen vigilance at all levels of the struggle. The enemy killed the lion of our struggle, but the next day the sun rose up, which means the enemy can kill us but they will not stop our march to the Promised Land.

We appeal to our enemy once again. One day we will cross the river of hatred and brutality, and one day the bright dawn of liberation will rise in the dark shadows of slavery and oppression.

Resolution 435 should be implemented to terminate the bloodshed in this country. Our struggle needs effective action - the unification for all Namibians.
