

No PLAN man

IREAD in the people's newspaper (The Namibian) last week that South African security forces had claimed to have captured a PLAN combatant who had been allegedly planning to assassinate Mr Peter Kalangula.

This action is being rejected by all peace-loving Namibians with the contempt it deserves. It is almost certain that PLAN has nothing to do with the man in question.

The proof lies in the words of Mr Hidipo Hamutenya: "Swapo does not consider Mr Kalangula as the real obstacle to Namibia's independence for him to deserve Swapo's particular attention".

The people think that the person the security forces has captured may be South Africa's own instrument.

From my point of view this was an attempt to cause hatred among the people. South Africa is always trying to divide us in order to facilitate their illegal rule over Namibia.

I feel this action was intended to smear the name of Swapo and at the same time to frighten and silence Mr Kalangula who calls for the withdrawal of the South African Defence Force and the implementation of Resolution 435, and to coerce him into accepting the interim government which was imposed on the people against their wishes.
