

Mortality formula

IN THE wake of the latest SADF incursions into Angola and the claims by Magnus Malan about Swapo's loss of 150 men to their 12, one could pose the following questions:

- ☐ Did Magnus Malan get his mortality formula from the now infamous Voortrekker/Zulu war at Blood River?
- ☐ If they (SADF) claim such a high success rate, why then had Swapo not surrendered during its first year of armed struggle (1966)?
- ☐ Is Mr Malan's cheap propaganda aimed at those who still might join the armed struggle?
- ☐ Has he read the recent copies of The Namibian which indicate a rise in terrorist activities by SADF and their offspring?

We certainly don't need your "protection". Protection against whom?

Mr Malan, you might fool the puppets you have installed here in Windhoek, but certainly not the people of Namibia who seek peace and freedom.
