

Death of E Ihuhua

STUDENTS in the faculty of science at the Academy, and the whole institution, especially the progressive students as well as the Namibia community at large, were shocked to learn of the sudden death of comrade Erwin Ihuhua, a first-born son of Dr Thomas and Mrs Jacobina Ihuhua.

First I would like to express my deepest sympathy with the Ihuhua family and my words of condolence go to all relatives and friends who are left behind. May we find peace and comfort in knowing that our beloved one, the late Erwin Ihuhua, is in God's care.

To all peace-loving Namibians, at home and in exile, his death is a great loss. He proved himself to be committed to the cause of total independence of our beloved Namibia. As a student he devoted most of his time to his studies. At the university and in the community at large, he attended most progressive meetings which were held in the past. He also showed himself to be able to assume responsibility and was serious about the struggle for liberation.

Whenever he suggested or contributed an idea, he had thought it out critically before airing it. Whenever he spoke, he spoke sense. In his last letter to The Namibian in May this year, in which he congratulated Cde Vihajo, he showed his true colours to the public.

We salute Cde Ihuhua for his contribution to the struggle for independence. May he rest in peace.
