A peoples' bank?

It is high time that Namibians be made aware of the racist and selfish tendencies of the management of the so-called First National Bank, Barclays northern Namibia.

Barclays Bank has been doing business in northern Namibia for years now, but still, it is very clear that its management never had the interests of our people at heart.

The management of that bank does not care about black Namibians, they have always served as third class. Black Namibians are made to queue for hours outside in the dust and heat as they are not human beings.

The racists that are running the Barclays Bank have made special arrangements for whites in Oshakati to have better service and also their own agencies through which to channel monies and in so doing to avoid the kind of suffering and delay that blacks have to live up with.

The quality of service rendered at this bank for black people is very, very poor. There is no provision for separate savings and current account departments, causing people to queue up in the same line.

People living in far-lying areas such as Ombalantu, Uukwaluudhi, Ruacana, Nkongo, Ongandjera and so forth are the ones that suffer most. They are forced to travel at high speed because of the curfew, and in so doing increases the rate of accidents, and then still get delayed at the bank because of these long queues.

To date many of our local businessmen, and other members of the public that can afford it, rather travel down to Tsumeb to conduct their business there. How long are things to continue like this?

Unless the management of Barclays does something about this matter cold water. You will be asking the true Namibians for a cup of cold water. And then

You are directly and indirectly responsible for the innocent blood that is flowing in this country. Your satanic deeds will not be left unpunished.

We salute you, Comrade Nambondi, we salute you.

Call for inquiry

TOGETHER with all true, faithful Namibians, the Catholic Youth Desk condemns the bomb blast at Oshakati. The Desk too, calls for an independent judicial inquiry into the horror bomb blast.

The Catholic Youth Desk expresses its sympathy with and condolences to innocent victims and bereaved families.

Together with Hiemstra (the former Chairman of the interim government's Constitutional Council, Judge Victor Hiemstra - Ed.) the Youth Desk asks South Africa to get out of Namibia, and calls for the speedy implementation of UN Resolution 435.

We, the Namibians, must not be stopped by such satanic deeds, in fighting for justice and peace. Let us now, more than ever, stand together and work for the peoples' common goal: a free and independent Namibia.
