

in the soul of every one of us. A people long subjected to foreign domination, however, does not always find it easy to translate that wish into action. Under arbitrary rule, people are apt to become lethargic, their senses are dulled. Fear becomes the dominant force in their lives; fear of breaking the colonial and apartheid laws.

SWAPO, who led the struggle for freedom, broke through this apathy and fear. We gave active expression to the universal longing to be free.

Our leaders strenghten the peoples' faith in themselves, and encourgae them to take part in the freedom struggle.

I am convinced the unity of the Namibians outweigh those who divide us.

Forward with the struggle.

Who's monitoring

Which is the monitoring force, UNTAG or the South African Army?

1. It looks as if Mr Ahtisaari cannot refuse or argue any request or move put forward by the South African government.

1.1 After the security force attacked the PLAN-fighters on April 1, he allowed the South African army to leave their bases for a large attack on SWAPO fighters.

1.2 After the confinement of the South African troops to their bases for 60 hours, we find they had already left their bases before the designated 06h00 on April 29. They started to fire allert shots during the whole night of the 28th. The UNTAG forces in the north will agree with me. From 02h00 on the morning of the 29th their Casspirs and Rattels were on the road.

Why do they have to monitor the withdrawal of the SWAPO fighters? Will SWAPO fighters do the same when they withdraw? What is the UNTAG force doing here?

2. So many Koevoet/police are deployed and moving around in Northern Namibia in their Casspirs amongst the people. Why don't they stay at their police stations? Is it because because there is no room for all of them? The whole KOEVOET was just give the name 'police'. Why keep such a big police force? Is it just to distribute DTA pamphlets, helping in their campaign as they did on April 29 at Othingo, on the west of Oshakati and elsewhere?

3. Does Mr Ahtisaari know that South Africa is doing all this to violate Res 435? Does he know that South Africa wants to waste time until no more time is left and they will come up with requests to withdraw the peace plan?

4. For years, South Africa has told us that the people of Namibia will decide on their future. It does not seem to be the case. Let South Africa withdraw her forces, we can get along with the UNTAG forces.
