

Nujoma, Ignore The Enemies Of Peace

PRESIDENT Nujoma must still continue to rule.

His leadership throughout all those years should guarantee him a third chance in the office.

The Namibian Constitution is not static, nothing is impossible on this globe. Many things have been changed in this country and have been made possible, so why not the Namibian Constitution? Presidents elsewhere in the world rule for even more than 20 years. Present Nujoma has fought for the liberation of this country, though not alone, so then he deserves to eat the fruits of his struggle even more. Of course nobody is perfect, he may make mistakes but that can be corrected and he can accept that and life can still go on. Please let us give him one more chance, we still need him, he is good.

Fellow Namibians, let us not be misled by other people, misleading people are enemies of peace, and that could be the reason why they don't want a peace-loving Namibian, Nujoma, to get another chance of ruling.

Even if there was a new president now, he would not be able to bring about development everywhere at once, he would need time, just as Nujoma did. Frankly "Viva Nujoma with every step you take and every move you make. We will still honour, respect and love you, and your leadership as well."
