

Parting Shot From A Forgotten Namibian

WHAT will happen if President Sam Nujoma runs for another term? Will he be able to give jobs to the ex-PLAN combatants?

And what will happen if we Namibian citizens start demonstrating like the ex-PLAN fighters who have demonstrated for all these years thinking that they are the only ones who fought for this independence of Namibia? Will we also be given jobs or what?

I want the government to look at both sides. Some of our parents also died during the liberation of Namibia, even though they did not fight in exile. It seems to me we, the people who were not in exile, are forgotten.

And one more thing. Here in Namibia we have people who have completed their education, who know English and how to use a pen better than some of the ex-PLAN memes and tates who work in the Government.

Some of us are no longer interested in the elections of this country. Another thing I know is that if you don't have a relative in the Government forget about working for your Government one day. And, last but not least, enjoy the elections. Peace, I am out!

NAMIBIAN STUDENT,
US, via e-mail